February 1, 2011

DR. CAROLYN BROWNING TO SPEAK AT
NEW RIVER GVC THURSDAY, FEB. 3

[LEWISBURG, W. VA.] Dr. Carolyn Browning will be the speaker at a convocation on the Greenbrier Valley Campus of New River Community and Technical College in Lewisburg, W. Va. on Thursday, Feb. 3 at 11 a.m. The program, a celebration of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., will take place in Hollowell Auditorium on the first floor of Greenbrier Hall.

Browning, associate professor of business at New River, will speak on the theme “Let Me Take You There.” The public is invited to join students, faculty, staff, and administration for this special program.

“Dr. Browning is considered one of the most powerful speakers in southern West Virginia and southwestern Virginia,” notes Wanda Johnson, program coordinator on the Greenbrier Valley Campus.

Johnson said that the convocation was originally scheduled to coincide with the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Day observance, but was postponed due to weather.

“It will be just as fitting for the opening days of African American Heritage Month.”

Johnson said.

For additional information on this and other programs planned for the students, faculty, staff, and administration of New River as well as the public, contact Johnson at 304-647-6710 or via e mail wjohnson@newriver.edu.

-end-