Lizabeth Rodgers has been promoted from associate professor to professor of business on the Greenbrier Valley Campus of New River Community and Technical College in Lewisburg, W.Va. Her promotion was announced by Dr. Harry R. Faulk, executive vice president and chief academic officer.
Rogers has been on the New River faculty since 2004. She had been on the faculty of its predecessor institution, Greenbrier Community College Center, since 1998. Prior to joining the college she was a teacher in Greenbrier County public schools.

A graduate of Greenbrier East High School, she received her bachelor’s degree in business education from the West Virginia Institute of Technology and a master’s degree in reading education from West Virginia Graduate College (now Marshall University Graduate College). She earned a second master’s degree in business education from Marshall University.

New River Community and Technical College serves a nine-county region of southeastern and south central West Virginia from campuses in Beckley, Lewisburg, Princeton and Summersville. Administrative offices are located in Beckley.
